BRIDE TELLS HOW SHE WAS PUT OUT

Her Mother Was Jealous of Her, Mrs. Lockwood Declares on the Witness Stand.

Virginia Nell Lockwood, a pretty of $150 an hour was excribitant, his colride of a few months, declared on the claimed of a few months, declared on the claimed in Justice Giegerich's Chief Inquisitor Emery R. Buckner art of the Supreme Court, to-day, that bride of a few months, declared on the witness stand in Justice Giegerich's part of the Supreme Court, to-day, that | during the discussion she was driven from her home and her Moman with THROAT CUT 28, 1912, a day efter her eighty-four-year-old father, Dr. James Neil, had ransferred to her title to a mortgage of $6,000. Dr. Nell is suing to recover the mortgage on the plea that he was tricked into making the assignment.

The da "ter, who married Edward

Lockwood minst her parents' wishes a few mone ago, testified her mother was jealous or her and had importuned her father to transfer to Mrs. Nell all of his personal and real property and provision for her. He then signed over the mortgage.

There was such an uproar and so much confusion when mother heard the news," testified the daughter, "that she end my brother Albert forgot to eat their Sunday dinner. The meat was on the table from 1 to 5 o'clock, when 1

Among the incidents of the afternoon the witness described was her's visit to her bedroom.
"He came in search of something,"
the young woman said. "Finally he made his way into the clothes press where my hathox was. He threw the hex on the floor, selzed my new hat and, after ripping a new feather from it, thrust his first threw the crown and then dropped the remains of the hat on the floor."

Young Neil, she testified also me.

Young Neil, she testified, also met tockwood, the fiance, at the door that day and told Lockwood not to come round again or he would be thrown

"Next time I returned," she said,
y obably a week later, I went to my roum and found all my belongings tossed on top of a bed. My, furniture, which my father bought for me, was stored away in my brother's room. Everything was topsy-turvy. You would have linastired a storm hit the room. I finally got my furniture."

Mrs. Lockwood contends her mother's antagonism to Lockwood has resulted in our disinheritance from sharing in her latner's $200,000 estate. Besides deeding to her the mortgage, she says, her father also wrote out for her a check for $2,000. which further provoked her mother's

ALDERMEN IN ROW AT CURRAN'S PLEA FOR $25,000 MORE

The Curran Aldermante Police investigating committe wants another $25,000 for expenses. A resolution asking for that amount was read at the meeting as referred to the Pinance Committee. Minority leader Frank L. Dowling opcosed any reference of the resolution. He wanted it tabled, but the Fusion and Republican members strongly ophad a right to explain, and might vote for an immediate adoption of the Alderman Dowling is a member of the investigating committee.

Alderman Esterbrook, a Republican member of the committee, protested that the people considered $200 an hour a dicap rate for exposing the condition of the police, vice and crime, which continued to flourish under the old-time system. If Alderman Dowling was willing to vote for $15,000 now, his position was not logical in alleging that the cost of the investigation at the rate

Many of the customers at every credit store are slow in paying their bills

You who pay promptly are charged the same prices as the customers that take months to pay their bills. Are you going to do your Xmas shopping at the store that has to sell at high prices to all of its customers in order to protect itself against slow pay and defaulting by a few of its customers. Or are you going to pay for your own goods only, at the store that sells for cash only—to you and to every one of its customers?

The aristocrats of the Furs-Baby Caracul, Alaska Sealskin, Scotch Moleskin, the season's favored Fur-all are superbly represented in this magnificent showing. We quote a few specimen items from the many which this Clearance Sale presents. Critical inspection and comparison invited.

A Set of Arctic Blue and White Fox. now $196.00 Macy's price was $264.00

(As illustrated). Four entire skins, two of white and two of blue Fox, are combined in this very beautiful and effective set. The pelts are exceptionally large and full-furred, finished with head, brush and paws. The large scarf and the huge muff show the combination of the two colored furs and are lined with soft white satin

Macy's price was $374.00

Fisher, the Canadian cousin of the almost priceless Russian Sable, has the same rich dark coloring and soft thick fur of the Russian Sable. The skins of which this Fisher Set are made are unusually dark in color and of very silky fur. The scarf is made of two complete animal skins in reversed effect. Three entires skins make the muff. Both pieces are richly lined.

Because of the present scarcity of Fisher, this Set is unusually noteworthy
